TRAVERTINE

Travertine is a form of missive calcium carbonate, a natural stone resulting from the sedimentation of rivers and springs though it porous, it is in fact it is a dense and closely compacted form of limestone. it is the prefect material for residential and commercials, due its to subtle splendor and durability. the iconic coliseum of Rome is the ideal example to showcase the architectural potential of travertine.

QUARTZITE

Although many people often confuse granite with quartzite, on the contrary, quartzite, like marble, is a metamorphic rock, rather than igneous rock like granite. Extremely hard and compact, of a finer grain than granite, especially evinced and coloured like marble, quartzite is the most versatile stone amongst all of the natural stone. Stronger than marble and even granite quartzite is actually the most durable natural stone. In fact, quartzite can be called nearly indestructible, resistant to chemical weathering, non porous, scratch resistant, and hard as diamonds, quartzite is easy to maintain and keep bacteria free
